

Hello Gilbert, you mentioned that the OCI would play a role in my immigration. It wouldn't, any person who was once a citizen of a country and naturalized to another country gets a OCI. An OCI is not for immigration, it's to encourage business between two countries. It's a misnomer.

I also don't speak any Indian languages and I hadn't been there between 24 to 28 years. It's not a place ever considered for refugee because there is no medical help in most locations for Multiple Sclerosis or toxicology with university level (high level) resources.
