

Narendra Nirmal Jana

realn@mykolab.com

The us playing with pseudobulbar effect in Physical Brain Injury Assault

The other effect that the us tries to play with is something called pseudobulbar effect, which is emotional incontinence (inability to regulate emotional states) which is an inherent part of neurodegenerative conditions:

Wikipedia Explaining Pseudobulbar Effect

The idea is simple, verbally abuse me in generally vulnerable states. People with neurodegenerative conditions like alzheimers, parkinsons, huntingtons, and multiple sclerosis don't have the capability to control their emotional states depending on the phase of their condition.

In relapse remitting forms of MS its not as prevalent as in progressive forms of MS. I have a progressive form of MS. There is also a medication for this neurological effect as well, its called nuedexa. Which I was never prescribed:

The united states knowingly played with pseudobulbar effect. Here is a listing of audio recordings to give the number of instances that the us has tried to play with pseudobulbar effect. I audio recorded the repeated verbal malice.